A Spook on the Brake Wheel.
The trainmen on the Denver Pacific Railroad have been reporting a strange manifestation. Mr. W. H. Smith, a conductor on this road running between this city and Cheyenne, is the authority for a curious story concerning an apparition which has shown itself to several trainmen during the last two months. The story is substantially as follows:

"Conductor Smith's train, a freight, left Cheyenne in the evening about two weeks ago. The sky was clear and the moon was shining. About fifteen minutes this side of Cheyenne, at the foot of the hill is the point known as Big Springs. The conductor was in his caboose, seated in the lookout. The train was running somewhat more rapidly than the schedule time, and Mr. Smith gave the signal to the engineer for a whistle for brakes. The whistle was given, and just at that moment the conductor saw, about three carlengths ahead, seated on a brakewheel, a man whom he mistook for one of his brakemen. The figure did not move at the whistle, and the conductor climbed down to ascertain the reason of such apparent neglect of duty. As he stepped out of the caboose door he discovered his rear brakeman busily twisting the wheel, and further up the train beyond the figure, was the other brakeman also at work. The conductor called the attention of the rear brakeman to the figure, and together they started toward it. When they were within a car and a half's length the man deliberately rose to a standing posure and stepped off the side of the car.

There was no movement as if the man had lost his balance and fallen off, but he apparently walked off just as a man would step from a curbstone into the street. The watching trainmen were horrified because they could realize no other effect from such an apparently suicidal movement than the death of the man dashed against the ground many feet below.

There was, however, no such result; nor, in fact, could the man be seen at all. He had vanished. Several trainmen, on Mr.
Smith relating his experience, stated that they had heard something much like the same experience occurring to others at the same point on the road. One brakeman, named Malone, was found who said that not more than a week previous to Mr. Smith's curious experience he had turned around as he was going forward on his train setting the brakes and beheld a man sitting on a wheel three cars behind him. He was not startled until he went ahead three cars more, and, looking back, saw the fellow sitting on the brakewheel at the place where he had stood himself when he first saw him. The specter, man, or whatever it was, kept just three car lengths behind him all the way until he reached the engine. He called the attention of the fireman to the apparition, and they turned back to see what it was. The figure as had been the case in Mr. Smith's instance, rose from the wheel and deliberately walked off the end of the car. No crushed or mangled remains of an unfortunate could be found, nor could any one be seen. The man had vanished in thin air. Neither of the railroad men who tell this peculiar story is a bit superstitious, and both were in their soberest senses when this peculiar apparition appeared to them. No accident has occurred at Big Springs within four years.

About that time a freight train went to pieces on account of a broken rail and a brakeman was killed. There is something funny about the affair.—Denver News.

PREACHER SUSPENDED.—Among the recent candidates who were received into the ministry of the West Virginia Conference of the Methodist Church was a young man named Geo. Shaw, living in Jackson county.
The first charge for Rev. Shaw was at Fairfield, in Kanawha county. While there he wooed and won a beautiful girl named Miss Ira Little. While at Fairfield he was assiduous in his devotions to Miss Little. About three months ago he was temporarily transferred to a charge at Cerro, in Wayne county. Forgetting his first love, though he had promised her marriage, he soon found in Miss Little Willis, a member of his new flock, one much more to his fancy, and in time wooed, won and wed her. It was now Miss Little's turn. Instead of committing suicide or instituting a "Baby Bunting" suit, she took her parents into her confidence, and the matter was brought before the Methodist Church. It has just resulted in the young divine being suspended from preaching. At the close of a discourse preached by the young man's father in Cerro, the young minister stood up in his pulpit, and announced that he had promised to marry one lady and deserted her for another.
The young minister will leave for Ohio in a few days to join the Ohio Conference.
